Entertainment Extra by Evelyn

Q. Whatever happened to Victoria Principal. Ever since she left "Dallas," she has kept a very low profile. Is she having medical problems? Grant B.

A. Victoria's "no-show" low-profile is nonexistent. Ms. Principal has been busier than ever as a television movie producer with her own company. In fact, Victoria has coproduced four films over the past year, and is currently working on another. Her marriage to a Hollywood plastic surgeon has been a true love affair and the couple is closer than ever.

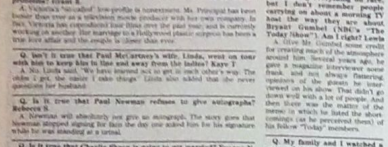
Q. Isn't it true that Paul McCartney's wife, Linda, went on tour with him to keep him in line and away from the ladies? Kaye T.

A. Linda has said, "We have learned not to get in each other's way. The opposite of the glance I take change." Linda also added that the never questions her husband.

Q. Is it true that Paul Newman refuses to give autographs? Rebecca S.

A. Newman will absolutely not give an autograph. The story goes that Newman was stopped signing for fans the day one asked him for his signature while he was standing at a urinal.

Q. Is it true that Charlie Sheen is going to get married? Yvonne N.



A. As of this writing, 'cause anything can change overnight in Hollywood, the handsome actor is going to marry actress Kelly Preston on April 20.

Q. Who exactly is taking care of the late Christina Onassis' daughter, Athena? Joy L.

A. Athena is living with her dad, Thierry Roussel, and his girlfriend, Gaby Landhage. Thierry and Gaby are soon to be wed.

Q. I loved the actor who played the second Duke on "General Hospital." Could you please tell me his name? What other soaps, if any, has he been on, and why did "GH" finish off the Duke storyline so quickly? Sybil B.

A. The actor in question is Greg Beecroft and, yes, he has appeared on two other daytime soapers. Greg starred on "Guiding Light" as Tony, and as "As The World Turns" as Brock.

Originally, Beecroft was signed on the "General Hospital" soap for a three-month stint. However, the character of "Duke," resurrected from the dead with completely new looks from plastic surgery, was suddenly axed after only seven weeks. Beecroft was not angry about his unexpected departure, but he admitted that he was very surprised. In addition, Beecroft was disappointed that he could not do more with the character since he was just getting into his role. Well, that's Hollywood-folks! However, don't feel sorry for this talented actor. His role opposite Linda Evans and Beecroft should be back on the tube very shortly — he certainly has the talent.

Soap Updates by Seli Groves

ALL MY CHILDREN: Donna and Chuck were engaged. Philly Clyde warned her he'll tell Emily Ann everything unless she gives him the ring which he'll use to raise money for Jenny's love. Instead, Donna went, caged the Glamorama and turned the $10,000 over to him. To resolve her confused feelings over Jackson and Travis, Donna decided she'd date each one on alternate nights. Skye finally went to the AA meeting and admitted she was an alcoholic. Ted and Dixie lifted. Dixie changed the locks on their place, forcing Opal to go elsewhere. She checked into the Valley Inn claiming Palmer would pay all her bills. Wait To See: Opal's delusions of grandeur get grander.

ANOTHER WORLD: John was shocked to learn Sharlene spent thousands of dollars on new clothes. Rachel brought a weakened Ken home despite his and Jamie's objections. Vicky realized her recurring nightmare might mean Marley (her twin sister) is in danger. The attorney for Marley's real parents visited Michael. Iris was furious with Josie who accused her of being jealous of her friendship with Lucas. Wait To See: Ken tells Rachel something important about Mac.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Lucinda continued to deny how she accidentally caused Susan's injury. Larry Wagner and Lucinda Phillip Lombard may be Duke's real father. After hiring Sawyer to go to Montreal to find Lilith, Duncan warned him she's dangerous. Hal and Margo reminded each other they loved their own spouses. John and Kim went to an Al-Anon meeting to learn how they can help Andy. Dr. Matthews asked Iris out to dinner. Wait To See: Bob and Kim realize the gap between them is growing wider.

BOLD & THE BEAUTIFUL: Clarke couldn't persuade Margo to leave Bill and marry him. Meanwhile, Bill agreed to give up his fight for custody of Mark. Sally accepted Clarke's marital condition: he'll marry her, but he'll need time to come around, sexually, that is. Eric was completely unaware that Brooke won't see him because of everyone's (wrong! wrong! wrong!) assumption he and Stephanie had reconciled. Brooke left for Paris, telling Donna not to tell anyone she's pregnant. Wait To See: A triumphant Stephanie finds a new problem arising out of an old one.

DALLAS: Cally discovered momentary triumphs could lead to lingering disasters. Stephanie had another surprise for J.R. Wait To See: Change brings hope for some, anger for others.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Cal got word that Kimberly was pregnant. Bonnie later heard her radio show on rape, incest, and abortion and realized something was wrong. After hearing that Justin was seeing Adrienne, Mickie made a new will, naming Bo as his heir. Faith's recovery from the accident left her unable to use her legs. Mickie's growing more attached to Stephanie every day, panicked when Patch told her Kayla might soon be released from jail, and made plans for raising the baby. Wait To See: Ghuspper's "confession" leads to a surprising development.

FALCON CREST: The series will return to CBS on Thursday, April 26 (9-10 p.m.), with four new episodes to complete the season.

GENERAL HOSPITAL: Desiree learned Prince had cut his ties to the WSB. Robin promised Casey she'll get him to Spoon Island where he sensed the presence of another crystal. To teach him about human behavior, she brought him into the library and was startled when he asked for a book on sex. Lacey was upset to learn Monica owned the Quartermaine estate and insisted Alan agree to a settlement so she could live there. Anna told Sean Robin must never learn of her checkered past as a DVX agent and "traitor." Wait To See: Faison holds the cards, and Anna is the prize.

GENERATIONS: Kyle was upset that Jordan shot Eddie in the back, and wondered who betrayed Eddie's whereabouts. Chantal was furious at losing her star witness. Rita told Adam her husband (Lester) died in an accident. Jordan felt nervous about Jessica seeing the hit man. Daniel came to see baby Danielle, pretending to Martin that he's an insurance agent on a call. Jordan planned to use Sam as an unwitting courier for something he wants smuggled through U.S. customs. Wait To See: Jordan's plans fit in with Sam's expectations. Jeaving Kyle pretty much on the outside looking in.

GUIDING LIGHT: Neil learned he's the father of Beth's baby and told Beth and Philip that he'll claim parental rights. After learning of Bobby's death, Rae lured Rick to come to her, knocked him out, tied him up, and then turned up at Chelsea's place to tell her the "fan's" identity had been discovered. Gary stole a codicil to Philip's will. Reva told Sam she must marry Dylan. Wait To See: Rae's "revenge" seems unstoppable.

KNOTS LANDING: Danny created problems for Val and Gary by telling Bobby that Gary is his real father. Paige turned down Tom's marriage proposal. Wait To See: Karen's "business" poses a strange request.

LOVING: Clay was busy romancing Abril to get information on Tempest. Like her dream, Trisha discovered a mystery room in her father's house. Homeless and feeling depressed, Gwyn's mother with another woman in an abandoned car. Later, she began waitressing at a restaurant in which Clay suddenly appeared. Kate, home from the hospital, learned Louie had paid her bills. Wait To See: Dane moves into the next phase of his master plan.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Max spied on his son, Al's birthday party where Gabrielle made a move on Cord. Sarah thought she saw Austin as she panicked and drove into Scott while Michael and Carly watched. Brenda spotted Michael's car on the side of the road (close to where they dumped Scott's body) and a bloody glove nearby. Rafe learned that a man's body had been found in an empty lot, while Bo and Sarah were still unsure if he had anyone or if it were all in her mind. Wait To See: Jessica's fate. Tess's insistence around Michael — and he doesn't like it.

SANTA BARBARA: Derek, Hunt, and Stephanie had doubts about Ethan's "accident." Mason and Julia put Sasha's frozen body into a hospital cryogenics cylinder. Lisa arranged to take Eden to a drug dealer. After delivering the drugs to Marcos, Nikki overheard him warn Lisa not to tell of the "fee" herself. Later, Nikki was shocked when Cruz discovered Lisa's plastic-wrapped body. Mason became more suspicious of Laura and he and Julia rushed to the crypt after getting a tip from the cemetery's night watchman. Wait To See: Derek, Hunt, and Stephen bring Ethan into their plans.

YOUNG & THE RESTLESS: Victor learned he was too late to stop Nikki's marriage to Jack. Rex was disgusted to see Kay (actually Marge) drinking with Robert and Shirley and agreed divorce was the only answer. Danny's warnings about David proved true for Cricket when he threatened to make her a "very ugly woman" if she interfered with his plans for Nina. Adrian planted his cuff links and money clip on Nathan and used it as an excuse to fire both him and Sidena. Nan began having second thoughts about giving up her baby for adoption. Wait To See: Cassandra's nightmare comes to life.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

DEAR DEX

by Dexter Dyer

DEAR DEX:

I'm a 32-year-old woman, and I recently met a man whom I really enjoy his company and believe I've fallen in love with him. He's witty and warm — an all around good man. However, the flack I get from my friends and family is outrageous! They think I find him attractive because of his money, but they don't realize he's not really that well off. Granted, he's comfortable, but he's also 57 and should have a nice home and all the other things he has. He's going to be retiring from his current practice soon. He's asked me to marry him and I really want to, but how can I get my friends and family off my back?

FED UP

DEAR FED UP:

The only reason your friends and family could be bugging you is because you allow them to. If you put your foot down and tell them to mind their own business, they will have to do just that. Surely at your age you don't have to justify how you live your life to anyone. Just take a stand and be firm about it. There's no need to be overly concerned with what others think.

I wish you every happiness in your future with this man.

DEAR DEX:

I am a 35-year-old man with what I consider a rather unique problem. An acquaintance of mine from high school happened to get my phone number and is constantly calling me up, acting as if we were the best of friends. Frankly, I didn't care for this guy much back in high school. I certainly don't care to pursue any kind of friendship now. How can I say as much without being downright cruel?

UNCOMFORTABLE

DEAR UNCOMFORTABLE:

I think the best thing to do is just make yourself unavailable when he calls. If you happen to pick up the phone, make an excuse and get right off. Eventually, he'll get the hint and stop calling.

DEAR DIANE

by Diane Van Arsdale

DEAR DIANE:

I was given up for adoption when I was born. Later on in years, I asked my adoptive parents what my roots were, and if there were any other family existing. My mother told me the whole story about how my real parents couldn't afford the baby they just gave birth to. Therefore, I was adopted by a very nice couple who have been my parents ever since. When they adopted me, they were from another state, so I never knew anything about having any family out there. When my mom said yes I did, the search was on. I found my birth family, and they were still living in the town I was born in. They have married and have children of their own now. I know they had no idea where I went, or by whom I was adopted, but I think they could have found me if they were looking hard enough. Anyhow, both my blood mother and father passed away in a car accident. My question is, how can I go about contacting them? I don't want to disrupt their lives, and I don't want to be denied by them. I think that would kill me. I just want to know my sisters and brother. My parents have been very good to me, and have given me lots of love, but there's something still missing in my life and I believe it's that gap of real roots, and blood family. I'm anxiously awaiting your reply.

SEARCHING

DEAR SEARCHING:

To be quite honest, it has been my experience over the years that when adopted children look up their birth families, the results are usually traumatic. Granted, many people have had wonderful reunions, and I've heard from them, too, but for the most part, the appearance of an adopted child on the doorstep of his or her birth family creates a great deal of heartache and upheaval. Of course, it's impossible to predict what will happen. You're just going to have to consider the risks and decide for yourself what is best for everyone concerned. Good luck.

WILLIAM TELL' BANK ON IT

The legend of William Tell dates back to the 14th century. The famous archer was forced by the governor to shoot an apple which was balanced on the head of his son. The governor had told Tell that if the apple was split he would be pardoned. But Tell had been prepared for the governor's treachery. He had a dagger in the pocket of his jacket. If he missed the first shot, he would kill the governor. Whatever the real story of William Tell, the legend has rendered popular.

In 1880, the J.&E. Stevens Company of Cromwell, Conn., made a mechanical iron bank to impress the story of William Tell and his son on a new generation. The bank was designed so that Tell put a penny on the gun barrel and, the lever and the penny flew, the apple and pinched it into the tower. The 19th-century bank is a popular collectible and has been copied several times in the past 50 years.

Q. We just purchased an old light fixture for our bedroom. We were told it is an electrified gas fixture. The arms are brass with etched glass globes hanging small the electric bulb flew the first. We don't understand how a gas flame could be used in a globe that goes down, not up a globe.

A. A small number of gas fixtures were made with inverted mantles, over which fitted down. Most fixtures with closed globes that faced down, were originally electric fixtures were originally electric fixtures were pictured in "American Lighting: 1840-1940" by Nadja Maril (Schiffer, $39.95). Most date from 1915 to 1930. The book gives a complete history of lighting. It is well illustrated with catalog pictures and photos of restored lamps.

Q. I have an oval picture called a "Cupid Awake." It shows a child with a bow and arrow. It seems very old.

A. "Cupid Awake" and "Cupid Asleep" were popular photographs by Jerry West copyrighted in 1887 that were first captured in 1887. The picture was taken by M.B. Parkinson. The rights were owned by Taber-Prang Company of Springfield, Mass. The Ohio Art Company of Archbold, Ohio, made metal trays and other objects including pictures and frames. They made over 30 million frames. They were sold with the photograph of Cupid. They continued selling the frames and pictures until the 1960s. They can be found at many antiques shows.
